

Print selection for your room

Step 1 Take a photograph of the wall which you would like to hang the print?

0° is when you are facing the wall straight on.

The best angles are approximately 20° - 30° from 0°. That way you will get most of the furniture within the room and your new print in better perspective. You will notice that the ceiling is also included which is good but not too much of it; all you need is to give an indication so that you can tell that it is YOUR room. Corners of the room or anything which you can see when you are standing back from the wall is a good idea too.

Approximate eye level when standing

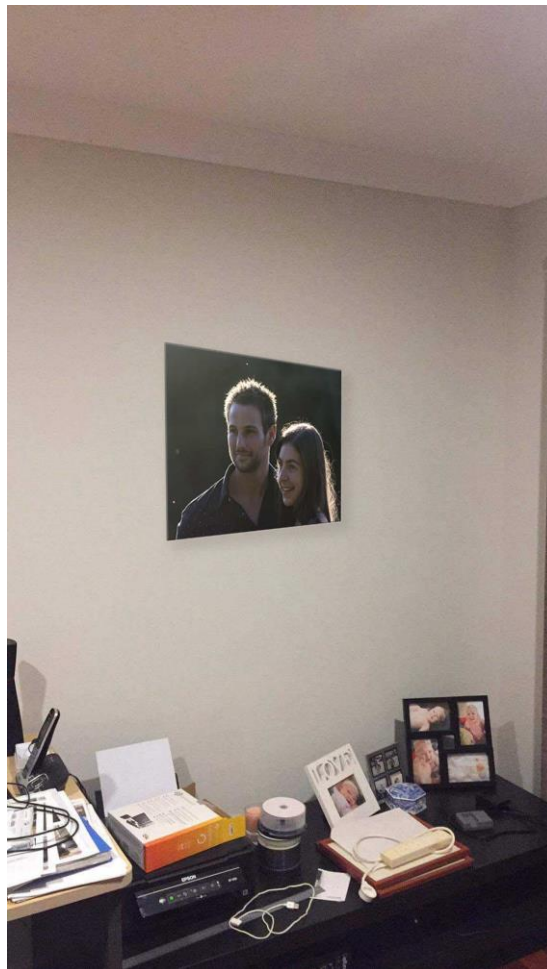

Step 2 Please make sure that you have identified the COLOUR(s) on the wall of the room, also any furniture and/or features within the room. (Where is the main source of light which will be projected onto your image?)

Positioning the image onto the wall is also important. It has been suggested that if there was a horizontal line drawn across the image $\frac{3}{4}$ from the top, then that line should be at your eye level on the wall when standing. This means that you will be looking slightly up.

Step 3 Note and record the FILE NAME (e.g. 2017 Jan 21 - 328 copy_1) of the print which you like to have on your wall.

Step 4 Note and record the SIZE of the print which you like to have on your wall. (Note that the print will be in imperial measurements NOT METRIC). A recommended size for the average size room is 16" x 24" (inches). See print measurements on the following page.

Step 5 Email the photo of your wall to Peter Young Photography at pyp@inet.net.au Peter Young Photography studio will then superimpose the print (e.g. 2017 Jan 21 - 328 copy_1) which you selected from the web site, onto the photo of the wall of your room then emailed back to you so you can see what it should look like.
